THE MAGICAL SEAHORSE

Text

Hippocampus commonly known as Seahorse lives in the Mediterranean Sea and warm areas of the Atlantic. They are unique in appearance, with their head like horse; independently moving eyes and toothless mouth, their color is usually yellow, orange, pink or gray. These aquatic fish are omnivores they eat tiny fish and crustaceans. Their favorite habitats are coral reefs and sea grass.

Unfortunately, today some species face extinction.

In Asia, collecting seahorses is used for business reasons: To sell them as souvenirs; they are also important for aquariums and in medicine. If we don't do something to protect them in the future, we will only be able to see some of these beautiful creatures in photographs. Seahorses are over 30 species living in oceans, and swimming in an upright position, they move very slowly. If seahorses are in danger, they turn brown or grey to hide from predators. It's important to protect these unique species from pollution and hunting.
